Deadline: July 1st, 2025

Scholarship Applying For

☐ Dr. Charlena M. Seymour Scholarship ($1,000)

This scholarship was established to recognize women pursuing an advanced degree in the fields of Public and Environmental Health. The scholarship will be awarded to a woman pursuing a graduate degree in Public Health and/or Environmental Health from any accredited U.S. University or College. The applicant must exhibit academic, professional, and personal qualities that best exemplify Dr. Seymour's life, namely: a dedication to high academic and professional standards; a vision of effective leadership; helping and mentoring associates, colleagues, and friends; and a consideration for all humanity.

☐ Dr. David F. Ludwig Memorial Student Travel Scholarship ($1,000)

This scholarship was established to recognize students pursuing research in Ecology and Ecological Sciences. This award will help cover travel costs associated with research in the field of ecology, including travel or conference registration costs to present the results of ecology-related research, or for professional development. Both undergraduate and graduate students of accredited colleges and universities in the U.S. are eligible for this award.
